Re: Written Ex Parte Submission in Facilitating Implementation of Next Generation 9-1-1 Services (NG9-1-1), PS Docket No. 21-479; Next Generation 9-1-1 (NG9-1-1) Valid Requests, PS Docket No. 25-143

Dear Ms. Dortch:

Pursuant to Section 1.1206 of the rules and regulations of the Federal Communications Commission (“Commission”),¹ Inteliquent, Inc., a Sinch company (hereinafter, “Sinch”), submits this Ex Parte letter in response to an Ex Parte memorandum filed by the Massachusetts State 9-1-1 Department (the “Department”) on June 25, 2026,² and an Ex Parte letter submitted by Intrado Life & Safety, Inc. (“Intrado”) on July 9, 2026.³

Sinch provides critical 911 call aggregation services by collecting 911 traffic from multiple originating service providers and ensuring this traffic can be delivered to Public Safety Answering Points in a manner consistent with the Commission’s rules and industry standards. The Commission has recognized the critical role call aggregation services play in creating efficiencies and providing valuable cost savings by enabling, “multiple small carriers to bundle their data streams and share the cost of transporting their pooled data streams to a common destination, resulting in lower overall costs than if each OSP paid for separate transport.”⁴ Intrado’s Ex Parte letter notes that, “an OSP that uses an aggregation service to route 911 traffic to a 911 Authority’s designated [point of interconnection] in the required IP-based SIP format meets its obligations under the Commission’s rules.”⁵

Sinch’s call aggregation services are fully compliant with the Commission’s rules and are capable of operating in both a Phase 1 and Phase 2 compliant manner. Sinch’s call aggregation services support nationwide transport of a Tier 1 wireless carrier as well as a Tier 1 cable company as well as many other originating service providers’ 911 traffic, in a compliant and
